etc., to consume the time of the board; in fact, he expressed his opinion that the amendments would not be stricken out to night.

The first amendment which was stricken out was one making it obligatory on the company te carry passengers to Harlem for six cents.

The next amendment stricken out, was one restricting the company to four cents fare, tor one person, for any distance between the lower terminus of the road and Tairtieth street.

An amendment, calling on the company to grade and keep in repair the streets through which the track is to be laid, was retained, as were several other amendments.

and seep in repair the streets through which the track is to be laid, was retained, as were several other amendments.

The most determined opposition was raised to the report by its enemies. It was finally adopted, however, and this board concurred with the Board of Aldermen, after adopting the amendments alluded to above. If the Board of Aldermen, therefore, adopt the amendments of this board, the Harlem Railroad will probably lay a single track, and run their small cars to the lower terminus of the Park. Another Free.—On Thursday night a fire broke out in the second floor of a three story residence on the north side of State street, between Clinton and Gardiner streets, in the occupation of Mr. Perry. Hook and Ladder Company No. 2, followed by Engine Companies 13, 14 and 17, were quickly on the spot, and succeeded in confining the fames to the upper part of the house, notwithstanding the difficulty of obtaining water, and the piercing cold and wind which prevailed at the time. The second and third floors were burnt out, and the parlor and basement much injured by water. Mr. Perry was insured. It is supposed that the fire was communicated by the night lamp of one of Mr. Perry's sens, who was asleep on the second floor. He was rescued by the servant, who was alarmed by his cries. One of the firemen, named Dunn, was much hurt, being wedged between a hook and ladder carriage and another apparatus.

Charge of Passing a False Token.—Mr. J. C. Smith was engaged on Friday and the day before, in investigating a charge against twe men, named Thomas Dunn and George Larkin, for attempting to pass dollar bills of broken and defunct banks and particularly one for $2 of the Hamilton Bank, Rhode Island. Larkin was first arrested, and Dunn appeared as a witness for him, when he also was ordered into custody. It appears from the statements of the witnesses and of the prisoner Larkin, that Dunn offered to a grocer named Singelken, a $5 bill in payment for a glass of ale. Singelken replied, it was bad, and he would take a shilling for such ones, representing $6, which he had in his possession. Dunn purchased the bills for a shilling, and gave Larkin afterwards, from among them. the $2 bill in question, telling him to give him one dollar if he succeeded in passing it. It was in this attempt that Larkin was arrested. Col Jack, for the prisoners, contended that the bill being a genuine one, though the bank was broke, it was no false token, and as no money had been obtained, they could not be held for a false pretence, the more attempt to obtain money so not amounting to any indictable offence. The Justice, however, determined on committing Dunn for trial; Larkin to be brought up for further examination.

Alleged Fraudulent Bankrupter.—City Court.—Jones vs. Anderson.—This was an action to recover the amount of two notes made in December, 1841, and January, 1842, in favor of one Talfourd, or order, and by Talfourd endorsed to the plaintiff, in November last. The defence was, the statute of limitations, and a discharge in bankruptcy, obtained by the defendant in 1843. The reply to these grounds of defendant, with leave to plaintiff to move to set aside that judgment, and enter a verdict for plaintiff, for $795 29, on a case to be made out within twenty days. T

To the Editor of the Herald—Sir: An article in the Herald of Thurday last requires a little correction—it is signed by M. M. Van Dyk. It is generally understood that two companies of Continental Guards recontly applied for admission into the Second regiment. Capasin V. D. should have been satisfied to clear his own company of any unworthy conduct, without setting up a general defense for all. Probably the captain does not know that "two Sootchmen and three Irishmen were driven out of one of the above C. companies by persecution;" but I will tell the saprain what he might have known, that three Sootchmen, three Irishmen, two Englishmen, a few Germans, and some Native Americans left in a body one of said companies, declining to associate with men whose intelligence led them to believe that a man's "creed or country" unqualified him from wearing the Continental uniform.

SATURDAY, Feb. 1--6 P. M. The stock market opened with the same feeling of apprehension as had been perceptible during the past week. Each day has had its offerings of trouble. The party referred to yesterday as having been com-pelled to suspend, has made a final failure, the settlement of whose contracts has increased the number of shares on sale, added to which, the difficulties of making loans on fancy stocks are increasing. The leading brokers, who have given facilities to outsiders, have as much as they can do to take care of themselves. Several houses who have been, and are, preminent as bulls, have never passed through one of our oldfashioned reactions that has so often visited Wall street. The events of the 12th June are yet remem-bered by those who suffered at that time.

At the first board, Farmers' Loan declined % Morris, %; Reading, 1%; Stonington, 1; Norwich, 1; Erie, M.

At the second board, the market improved in Erie  Morris, %; Reading, %; Farmers' %; Portsmouth, %; Stonington, 1. These slight reactions are of no importance, as the market cannot be sustained under such a pressure of real stock.

NEWS BY THE MAILS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31, 1851. An Interesting Day in the Sonate—A Small Breeze on the Negro Question—Mr. Hale makes a Pro-phecy on the Presidential Question—Morning Business—Mr. Soulé throws considerable Light on the Subject of California Land Titles, but no ge-Obstinacy of Old Bullion. Brilliant winter's morning. Sky clear as a bell.

Bracing breeze from the northwest. The meeting of the Senate is signalized by the largest gathering of spectators—the most numerous, intelligent, and elegant audience of the session-in the galleries above, and in the lobbies on the floor below. Conspicuous within the bar of the Senate is Mr. Dallas, with his venerable head as white as snow, and the dignified Mr. Buchanan is shaking hands with him as we write. The cause of this unusual gathering is the anticipated speech from Mr. Soule, of Louisgans, who, from his first speech in the Senate, during the Mexican war, established his reputation as one of the most learned, powerful, eloquent, and fascinating debaters in the United States; in the estimation of many, ranking in felicitous language with Henry Clay, in legal profundity with Daniel Webster, and in solid compact argument with Thomas H. Benton, and with a gracefulness of action, manner, and expression peculiarly Parisian in its elegance. A slight French accent upon the hard gutterals and the hissing consonants of the English language, if anything, so far from detracting, actually embellishes his distinct and emphatic articulation of every syllable. Add to these advantages, a fine person, a highly intellectual countenance, a dark but brilliant complexion, eyes at black as midnight, but luminous from the eath a.

sasan on an active and comprehensive mind—assan on an active and tomprehensive mind—address of elegant and tasteful simplicity, and we have the elements of an orator competent to command a commanding position even in the Senate of the United States. The expected speech from Mr. Soule, therefore, even on the dry subject of the United States. The expected speech from Mr. Soule, therefore, even on the dry subject of addition of the Senate to day. The result will show that Mr. Soule attempted no display for the galleries, but contented himself with a brief, close, argumentative appeal in favor of the old settlers into the content of the United States. But, independently of this debate, the proceedings of the day were sufficiently interested to the content of the United States. But, independently of this debate, the proceedings of the day were sufficiently interested of the committee on Foreign Relations to inquire into the expediency of allowing some indemnity to the Spanish claimants of the blacks on board the ship Amistad, said alaves having been declared free by Amistad. But and the state of Connecticut, where the subject in the state of Connecticut, where the subject in matter was tried, the negroes liberated, and there they were abipped on board the Spanish ship and the subject in matter was tried, the negroes liberated, and subject, and particularly to the Polanish of the Connecticut, where the subject in matter was tried, the negroes liberated, and subject, and particularly to the recommendation of President Polk.

The resolution being up for consideration, Mr. Chase gave in his exceptions. He recited the various treaties of the suppression of the Africa and hyases, and the publication of President Polk.

The resolution being up for consideration, Mr. Chase, and the pudicial decisions upon it, as conclusive against these Spanish claimants. Mr. Hale was a tittle more indiguant. He declared this to be the most abhorrent proposition ever proportion and the public theory in the proposition of the subject, and th

The California Land Bill-The Turiff, &c., &c. California land titles exciting a tremendous debate in the Senate-Benton looms up like Ajax defying the lightning-Clay, Soule, Berrien, Honston, Butler, and others, in the debate. Remarkably perplexing question. Mr. Hunter's tariff bill to morrow. It is something-not much, but actually necessary to carry out the existing law. By a late decision of the out the existing law. By a late decision of the Supreme Court, that goods by the act of '46 are to be charged with duty upon the value at the place and time from which originally imported, it is said there will be ground for a drawback upon the treasury of from tea to fifteen millions of dollars. Hence the necessity of Mr. Hunter's bill.

In the House, we had to-day a very amusing speech from Mr. Van Dyke, of New Jersey, setting forth the advantages of Jersey City for a branch mint, over the city of New York Jersey City must be looking up. We count with confidence upon the New York branch mint, and the assay office at San Francisco.
